CC Selecting a word or entering a string that is not a word triggers a suggestion window, which is just like a standard IE-style dropdown. Pressing the "OK" button on the suggestion will add the word to your dictionary. Once there are a certain amount of accepted proposals, the word will be added to your dictionary. FE Press Enter to show the list of suggested words Filter Selecting a filter option will hide the list of suggestions, but will show only the items matching the filter. Filter: CN Selecting a Chinese word will show only results for that language Filters Selecting a filter option will hide the list of suggestions, but will show only the items matching the filter. Filter: Use The default filter is CN. Use the order filter to change the order in which items are shown. order The default order is CN, meaning that the first suggestion will be from Chinese. Change the order to one of the options, or disable filtering. Using or not using the dictionary(s) will depend on how you choose to use it, and whether you have access to the files. To use the dictionary offline, you need to download them to your computer. If you use it online, there is no need to download dictionaries, but to be able to search for the word you are currently writing or adding, you need to synchronize the dictionary with the online server. This happens automatically, when you save the translation. If you would like to download the dictionary, click the Download button to download the dictionary. If you would like to synchronize the dictionary with the online server, click the Synchronize button to synchronize the dictionary with the online server. In order to save the dictionary on your computer you need to download it. It is a small PDF file, which is easy to download. There is a button on the window to download it: Download dictionary. If you wish, you can also download all dictionaries for free. You can also share your vocabulary with the online community, by verifying translations. Just click the button and your word is added to the online server. Be careful, if you click too fast it might add comments instead of adding, but you can still undo your last action. Click the button to add your word to the online server. Verify your translation
