Install the new Windows Hello app from Microsoft Store for Windows 10 for free. Windows Hello is a part of Windows 10 since Update 1803 that lets you use your biometric or facial recognition ID to login to your PC and check things like emails, documents, and of course, access to your apps. So what is Windows Hello, and how does it work? Windows Hello is a secure and convenient way to use your facial and/or fingerprint identification device to authenticate yourself. Whether you want to unlock your laptop with your face, log into Windows with your fingerprint, or use your digital driver licenses from the driver package, Windows Hello is the way to go. The Windows Hello app uses your device's camera to scan and capture your face, fingerprints, or a driver's license. Once it recognizes your facial or fingerprint ID, it will give you the option to login, a credentials prompt that appears after the 3-4 second scan. If you chose to login with your face, Windows Hello will ask you to face your camera, while you can click on the smaller floating bar to select the desired option. In Windows 10, Windows Hello also offers an option to use your fingerprints. Make sure to go to Settings > Accounts > Sign-in options, and use the Pre-authentication window to fingerprint scan. If you use your digital driver's license, you can quickly access it directly from your login screen. To do so, go to Settings > Accounts > Sign-in options, and add your digital driver's license. How do you see all these features and more in Windows Hello? From the regular Windows Hello app, you can: Create a new account by clicking on the "Sign in with a new account" button. You can add your Windows Hello to your account from the "Sign in with a Microsoft account" option.
